Legal First Responders:

Closing the Justice Gap for Human Trafficking Survivors

Justice Delivery Systems

"Justice is making wrong things right... We need to take [the] laws and we need to implement them. We don't need to leave them like tools in a shed that are just collecting dust. We need to take them out and build delivery systems of justice that actually bring the... protections of law to the people they were intended to protect. And that is taking something wrong and making it right."
